Keltec Bale Slice a winner at Farm World

After receiving the accolades of the Farm World organisation for the best new piece of unpowered farm machinery, Derek Genodere Tractors and Machinery was back on his firm's site at the field days demonstrating for Ross and Sharon Irvin of Mirboo the innovative bale handler, the Keltec Bale Slice, strips the bale of netting and plastic in one fell swoop, while also cutting it ready to be fed out or dropped into the feed hopper. ml51313

HAVE you ever thought that "there's got to be a better way" when stripping wet, messy and muddy plastic or netting from last year's silage or hay bales before feeding out?

And if those thoughts have come to you as you get in and out of the warm, dry cab of your tractor on a typically wet and windy winter's day in South Gippsland... then have we got an idea for you!

The decision by Genodere Tractors and Machinery to import dozens of pieces of an innovative new bale handler, the Keltec Bale Slicer, that not only grabs and lifts your bales, but also strips the plastic and netting as well as slicing the bale in half in one clean move, has already paid dividends.

Last week at Farm World the Keltec Bale Slice was awarded the title of the best new piece of unpowered farm machinery unveiled at the field days.

And it was easy to see why. But you didn't need to hear the staff of Genodere sing its praises: independent judge, Richard Lewis, the Executive Director at Tractor and Machinery Association of Australia, was more than happy to do it for them.

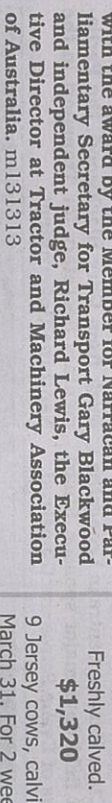

"It grabs a round bale of silage, pulls off the plastic or netting in one action, disposes of the wrap and puts the feed out all without having to get off the tractor and I would have thought, that down here in South Gippsland that would be a major benefit."

After receiving the major Farm World award for the Keltec Bale Slice, dealer principal at Genodere, Derek Genoni was back at the firm's stand at the field days demonstrating the unit for visitors.

He described the key features of the Keltec Bale Slice as being its ease of operation, the powerful set of serrated knives that cut right through the centre of the bale, slicing the wrap and fodder in two, while allowing the wrap to be grabbed by two clamps along either side of the unit. "We've got stocks of the bale slicer at Leon-gatha for people interested in taking a look. "We've already got several of them out in the field locally and we're getting excellent reports on how good they are."
